These three industries are among the most international and human-capital-intensive of all service industries. In these industries, analysis of business models and industry dynamics can provide insights about how human-computer interaction (HCI) and contract theory affect the evolution of financial market ecosystems and cross-border information flows, and how business models, work-allocation mechanisms, and liability allocation can evolve to manage change. An often-overlooked issue is that non-performing loans (NPLs), sustainability, and CRA efficiency can be significantly affected by business processes, corporate strategy, and HCI in industry ecosystems, multinational corporations (MNCs), and economic systems. Complex Systems and Sustainability in the Global Auditing, Consulting, and Credit Rating Agency Industries compares these three industries and introduces theories of public policy and “inter-business” processes. The book links industry structure, complex systems (including networks), behavioral game theory, structural changes, and antitrust problems to sustainability and the efficiency of pollution-remediation systems. The book introduces new “informal algorithms” and business/resource-allocation models that solve social-choice problems, and also contravene “impossibility theorems” that are at the core of modern computer science and mechanism design. This book is essential for professors and masters/PhD-level students and employees (in industry, financial services, research institutes, consulting firms, and government agencies) who are interested in industrial mathematics and theoretical computer science. Wiley CIA Exam Review 2020, Part 2 Practice of Internal Auditing John Wiley & Sons Wiley CIA 2022 Part 2 Exam Review Practice of Internal Auditing John Wiley & Sons Conquer the second part of the Certified Internal Auditor 2022 exam The Wiley CIA 2022 Part 2 Exam Review: Practice of Internal Auditing offers students practicing for the Certified Internal Auditor 2022 exam fulsome coverage of the practice of internal auditing portion of the test. Part 1 of this report focuses on how the Department of Health, Social Services and Public Safety and the health service trusts in Northern Ireland have monitored and managed consultants to date to ensure that they fulfil their commitments to the health service. Most consultants are highly committed and work beyond their contractual obligations. But, prior to the introduction of a new contract in 2004, the quality of timetabled work programmes in the trusts was poor, and there was little monitoring of compliance by consultants. This led to a lack of clarity and accountability in the relationship between the public and private practice of the consultants. The new contract is based on the overriding principle that a consultant's first and foremost commitment is to the health service patients, and provides the opportunity for the trusts to improve management of consultants. Part 2 of the report examines how successful trusts have been in recovering the full cost of services provided to patients receiving private care within the trusts' facilities, a useful additional income stream. There is evidence of slow recovery of costs from private insurers, and a lack of basic debtor controls to gather money owed for treatment received, which is not compatible with good governance and accountability. NIAO feels there is an urgent need for some trusts to improve their cost recovery systems so that the full potential of income generation is realised and the needs of accountability are satisfied.
